PACIFIC NORTHWEST REGION members celebrated the golden anniversary of the 914 by attending the 914 Turnout the weekend of 9/14.

The weekend of activities began at Porsche Tacoma with an invasion of 25 mid-engine offspring of the Porsche family. According to Bill Schott, "The 914 lends itself to modifications, and this was evidenced by the variation of cars on display. You could see everything from V8-powered cars to GTs."

James Young gave a tutorial on the 914. This was followed by sales consultant Skyler Standafer comparing a 718 Boxster and a 914. Next, focus moved to the shop, where Rich Dauenhauer of 914Werke discussed his Limited Edition Creamsicle, followed by Davin Trotter sharing technical information about the Boxster, including a look at its undercarriage. The session closed with the group gathering around Dane Stokes' car, the Ankle Biter, a highly modified 914 powered by a Subaru engine. It's a great example of the extremes to which the 914 can be personalized with the enhancement of a modern drivetrain.

The group left for a spirited tour around Lake Tapps and the twisty roads between Enumclaw and Black Diamond. The day closed with an Oktoberfest party held by the Rotary Club at Lake Meridian Park in Kent. The 914s were welcomed with special parking spots right up front. Diners on Sunday were treated to Mark Greene of Cars Yeah sharing stories about some of his 1,400 interviews. Turns out that Mark had owned a 914, too!

BLUEGRASS REGION members started their annual Member Appreciation social with 70 miles of the best back roads in eastern Kentucky, as
